T A B L E
SHOWING THE DATE^E OF THE VOLUMES AND THE CONCURRENT SERIES OF REPORTS
FROM 1810 TO 1907 INCLUSIVE.

NOTE.—To find the date of the Law Journal Reports, add 31 to the number of the volume, e.g. 63 L. J. + 31 = 1894.

*In the case of the Old Series of the Law Journal Reports, 22 must be added.
e.g. 4 L. J. (o.s.) + 22 = 1826.*

*To find the date of the Weekly Reporter, add 52 to the number of the volume.
e.g. 34 W. R. + 52 = 1886.*

*In the case of the Law Times there are 2 volumes a year, so 59 must be added to the half of the number of the volume.

TABLE OF REGNAL YEARS OF ENGLISH SOVEREIGNS.

"In England, in the seventh, and so late as the thirteenth century, the year was reckoned from Christmas Day; but in the twelfth century, the Anglican Church began the year on the 25th of March; which practice was also adopted by civilians in the fourteenth century. This Style continued until the reformation of the Calendar by Stat. 24 George II. c. 23, by which the Legal year was ordered to commence on the 1st of January, in 1753. It appears, therefore, that two calculations have generally existed in England for the commencement of the year; viz. —

- " 1. The HISTORICAL year, which has, for a very long period, begun on the 1st of January.
 - " 2. The CIVIL, ECCLESIASTICAL, and Legal year, which was used by the Church, and in all public instruments, until the end of the thirteenth century, began at Christmas. In and after the fourteenth century, it commenced on the 25th of March, and so continued until the 1st of January, 1753.

"The confusion which arose from there being two modes of computing dates in one kingdom must be sufficiently apparent; for the Legislature, the Church, and Civilians, referred every event which happened between the 1st of January and the 25th of March to a different year from Historians.

"To avoid, as far as possible, the mistakes which this custom produced, it was usual to add the date of the Historical to that of the Legal year, when speaking of any day between the 1st of January and the 25th of March, thus:—

January 30, 164⁸₉ i.e. the CIVIL and LEGAL year, or, thus:— i.e. the HISTORICAL year;

January 30, 1648-9

"This practice, common as it has long been, is nevertheless frequently misunderstood; and even learned and intelligent persons are sometimes perplexed by dates being so written. The explanation is, however, perfectly simple, for the lower or last figure always indicates the year according to our present computation.

"In SCOTLAND, the year was ordered to commence on the 1st of January instead of the 25th of March, 1600, by a proclamation dated the 17th of December, 1599; but the Old Style continued to be used until altered in 1752, pursuant to the Stat. 24 George II."—Nicolas's Chronology.

"Public documents in England, from the time of Richard the First, down to the present day, have been usually dated with the year of the reign of the sovereign, and not with the year of our Lord. (We must, however, except the years following the death of Charles I.. First, until the restoration of Charles the Second [1648-9 to 1660], when the name of the sovereign giving place to 'The Keepers of the Libertie of England by Authority of Parliament,' during the first five years, and afterwards, 'Oliver Lord Protector of the Commonwealth of England, Scotland and Ireland and the Dominions thereto belonging,' the year of our Lord, the month and the day of the month were the only dates given). Consequently, to be able to determine the year of our Lord, for any year of a sovereign's reign we must have a chronological list, showing the first and last date of the reign of each sovereign.

"In the early years of the English history, after the Norman Conquest, it appears that the reign of the sovereign did not commence until some act of sovereignty had been performed; the commencement of the reign being sometimes reckoned from the day of the coronation, of which practice there is evidence amongst the memoranda taken from the 'Black Book' of the Exchequer, under the date '16 November,' where the years of the reign of Henry III. have been counted from his coronation. It is obvious, however, that the dates given in the 'Public Records' for the commencement and determination of each sovereign's reign must alone be recognised, to the exclusion of all other systems, when our object is to verify written dates to be met with in the Legal Records. A question concerning the date of the accession of the sovereign was taken into consideration in the first year of the reign of Elizabeth in Michaelmas Term, when the Judges, Chief Baron, Attorney General, and Solicitor General formed several resolutions in relation to the statute (1 Edw. VI. c. 7) for the discontinuance of certain offices on the demise of the king; the first being that 'the king who is heir or successor may write and begin his reign the said day that his progenitor or predecessor died.'"—BOND, Handybook of Rules and Tables for Verifying Dates, 1873.

Of the two dates standing opposite to each year of a reign in the following Table, the first is the commencement and the second the end of the regnal year. In using this Table, it is necessary to observe that it is calculated according to the Common and Historical year, i.e., from the 1st of January; but, as the Civil, Ecclesiastical and Legal year, for a long period, began on the 25th of March, all dates between the 1st of January and the 25th of March belong, according to the Civil computation, to one year earlier than the Historical year.

For example:—From the 1st of January to the 25th of March, in the first year of the reign of William the Conqueror, was in the Civil year 1066, instead of 1067. For the same reason, Edward III.'s reign is sometimes said to have begun on the 25th of January, 1326, instead of the 25th of January, 1327; Henry V.'s on the 21st of March, 1412, instead of the 21st of March, 1413; Edward IV.'s on the 4th of March, 1460, instead of the 4th of March, 1461; and the same remark, mutatis mutandis, applies to the commencement of the reigns of Edward VI., James I., Charles II., James II., William and Mary, and Queen Anne, according to whether the Historical or Civil year be alluded to.

Note.—In the 3rd, 5th, 8th, 11th, 14th, and 16th years of John, several days of the month of May, in two succeeding years of our Lord, occurred in the same year of that King's reign; thus:—

Anno 3 Ascension Day 1201 (3 May), to Ascension Day 1202 (22 May).
5	—	1203 (15 May).
8	—	1206 (11 May).
11	—	1209 (7 May).
14	—	1212 (3 May).

* On the 4th of March, 1461, Henry was deposed by Edward IV., and the last instrument issued by him is dated on the 3rd of that month; but in October, 1470, he recovered possession of the Throne, and resumed the Regal title. The first instrument issued in the name of Henry VI., after his restoration, is dated 9th October, 1470, the testo to which, and to all other documents while Henry possessed the throne, is in these words:—"Teste meipso, apud Westmonasterium, nono die Octobris, anno ab inchoatione regni nostri quadragesimo nono, et readeptionis nostre regie potestatis anno primo." The last instrument issued by Henry VI. in the "Fœdera" is dated on the 27th of March, 1471.

* Although Charles II. did not become King, de facto, until the 29th of May, 1660, his regnal years were computed from the death of his father, 30th January, 1648-9, so that the year of his restoration is called the twelfth of his reign.

During the COMMONWEALTH, from the 30th of January, 1649, to the 29th of May, 1660, no other date was used in public instruments than the year of our Lord, the month, and the day of the month. It may be useful to observe, that OLIVER CROMWELL assumed the title of "The Lord Protector of the Commonwealth of England, Scotland, and Ireland," on the 16th of December, 1653, with the style of "His Highness." He died at Whitehall, on Friday, the 2nd of September, 1658; and his son, Richard Cromwell, was proclaimed Protector the next day, the 3rd of September, and resigned the office in May, 1659.

BAYLY (R. A.), Succession Duty in Canada. The Book contains the Text of the Act in force in each Province of the Dominion amended to date, with all judicial decisions rendered thereon. 1902. H.c. $5. New edition in preparation.

Since the late regulations requiring the filing of a special Succession Duty affidavit on every Application for Probate or Letters of Administration, no Solicitor can afford to be without a copy of this work.

"This book of over 400 pp. is a careful study of a statute which, originally complicated and perplexing, has now become still more so by reason of subsequent amendments. . . . The book, in addition to all Succession Duties Acts in all the Provinces of the Dominion of Canada, contains the Imperial Act and the New York and Pennsylvania Acts. It contains references to American, English and Canadian cases. The index appears to be very complete." Can. Law Times.

REVIEWS

WHAT IS IT.—A collection of statutes with full, though terse, annotations. The statutes selected are those of great practical utility. They, therefore, form a part of the Modern Law.

WHAT THE PRACTITIONER REQUIRES.—No practitioner can get along for even a day without the Revised Statutes. Each day some enactment must be considered. No lawyer can pronounce with certainty upon the interpretation of any statute without a knowledge of the authorities thereon. The ideal work would contain all the statutes and all the authorities in convenient and compact form.

The present work contains fifty-six Canadian Statutes, many of them common to all the English speaking provinces; and the following are the subjects:

BICKNELL (J.) AND KAPPELE (A. J.)—Continued.

CANADIAN CONSTITUTIONAL LAW — EVIDENCE — TORTS—— PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.

CONTRACTS.—The peculiarities and anomalies of the Statutes of Limitations and the difference between the effect of acknowledgments of and payments upon specialty debts, and similar acknowledgments of and payments upon simple contract debts, are not generally understood. These provisions and differences are explained and elucidated. The other Statutes under this head are Powers of Attorney, Written Promises and Acknowledgments (of simple contract debts), Master and Servant Act (secs. 3-5), Interest (60-61 Vic. D.).

PERSONAL PROPERTY.—Is an important part of the work. It contains an exhaustive and analytical annotation of the Execution Act, the Bills of Sale and Chattel Mortgage Act and the Conditional Sales Act.

EQUITY.—The important provisions of the Trustee Act are fully dealt with, and the authorities upon the liability of a trustee for the acts of his co-trustee or of his agents or servants, the appointment of new trustees, the validity of payments to surviving trustees or mortgagees, the sales of real estate by personal representatives otherwise than under the Devolution of Estates Act, the rights of a trustee to be indemnified or relieved from a breach of trust, the application of the Statutes of Limitation respecting debts of the testator, applications to the Court for advice and compensation to Executors and Trustees, are collected and explained.

COMMERCIAL WORK.—Most of the statutes included under this head are not dealt with in any other work. A knowledge of the effect of the authorities upon disputed points can elsewhere only be gathered from a perusal of the reports. The only indices to them are the digests of the various countries where equivalent legislation is or has been in force.

REAL PROPERTY STATUTES.—More statutes are annotated under this head than are contained in any work on Real Property Statutes. The list is: Mortmain and Charitable Uses, Transfer of Property, Mortgages of Real Estate, Devolution of Estates, Wills, Real Property Limitation Act, Vendor and Purchaser Act, Right to Dower, Conveyances by Married Women, Landlord and Tenant, and Overholding Tenants.

PLAN OF WORK.—The statutes are printed from the plates, and the exact counterparts of the enactments as they appear in the official volumes. The notes follow each enactment.

"The notes are full in the sense that they contain numerous citations; they are concise and clear and do not contain a trace of padding. Books of the general character of this book are not uncommonly made with scissors and paste; this book is made with brains."—Can. Law Journal

"A great deal of industry has been displayed, not only in collecting cases, but in keeping them down and in making the statement of their effect concise."—Can. Law Times.

"As a book of ready reference in daily practice this volume will be of such value that no legal practitioner can afford to be without it."—Mail and Empire.

BIGGAR (C. R. W., K.C.), The Municipal Manual, being the 6th ed. of "Harrison's Municipal Manual," revised and almost entirely rewritten. 1900. Sheep. $10.

1. "The Municipal Act" (Revised Statutes of Ontario 1897, chap. 223) with the amendments made by 61 Vict. chaps. 23 and 24 (Jan., 1898); 62 Vict. (1st Session), chaps. 2 and 5 (Aug., 1898); 62 Vict. (2nd Session, April, 1899), chaps. 26 and 30, and 63 Vict., chaps. 9, 33, 35, 36, and 37 (April 1900).

2. Full Notes of Municipal Cases reported to June 1st, 1900, in Canada, England and the United States.

3. Forms of By-laws (revised by Alexander Bruce, K.C., of Hamilton, and Z. A. Lash, K.C., of Toronto), Debentures, Rules of Order, etc.

4. An Historical Sketch of the development of Municipal Institutions in this Province from 1788 to 1900.

5. A Comparative Table—shewing (in parallel columns) such sections of the Code Municipal of the Province of Quebec, the Municipal Acts of Manitoba and British Columbia, and the Municipal Ordinances of the North-West Territories as correspond to those of the (Ontario) Municipal Act or relate to the same subjects.

6. A Tabular Guide to the Counting of Ballots at Municipal and Provincial Elections, with references to all reported decisions applicable thereto.

7. A Synopsis of the Law relating to the payment by Counties of their share of the Expenses of the Administration of Justice, revised by His Honour Judge Macdonald of Brockville (especially useful to County Judges and other members of the County Boards of Audit).

8. A List of the Municipalities of Ontario, with references showing all the Special Statutes and Proclamations relating to each Municipality.

9. A List shewing what local Municipalities (or portions thereof) compose the County Council Divisions of this Province, as established under "The County Councils Act, 1896.

10. An Index of the Cases Cited (over 5,000 in number) with a reference to the volume in which each is reported.—and

11. A complete Subject Index (over 100 pp.) prepared by Alan M. Dymond, Esq., Law Clerk of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario.

Although issued only a short time, the new "Municipal Manual" is already recognized as a text book of authority.

Chief Justice Sir Wm. R. MEREDITH—himself a leading authority on municipal law—recently referred to it as "an accurate compendium of the law relating to municipal institutions in this Province." MR. JUSTICE MOSS of the Ontario Court of Appeal is equally commendatory; and the late MR. JUSTICE ROSE, in a judgment delivered September, 1901, speaks of "Mr. BIGGAR's admirable text book, in which all the recent cases on the subject are carefully collected and clearly reviewed." Letters from many other Judges, as well as from lawyers and municipal officers, give abundant testimony to the accuracy and completeness of the "Manual."

BINGAY (Geo., Q.C.), County Court Manual; adapted to the Province of Nova Scotia, with Canadian and English authorities. 1891. Cloth. $1.50. Hf.-cf. $2.

This little volume is a collection of statutes relating to procedure and jurisdiction of the County Courts of Nova Scotia. Notes are added to many decisions, including those which furnish or suggest aids to interpretation, and there is a very complete index to the whole. The author seems to have done his work with the skill and care which from his reputation would have been expected of him.—St. John Telegram, March 30, 1891.

cially noticed, followed, disapproved or overruled, or of cases specially considered and of the Statutes referred to. Compiled by order of the Law Society of British Columbia by J. E. Bird, Barrister-at-law, assisted by A. C. Brydone-Jack and G. E. McCrossan, Barristers-at-law. 1906. Hf.-cf. $15.

BLIGH (H. H., K.C.), Ontario Law Index, with supplement, embracing all the legislation of the Province of Ontario from 1867 to and including the year 1900. Hf.-cf. $3. Separately, 1867-1895, at $2; and 1896-1900, in paper, $1.

This work contains not only every chapter, whether repealed or still in force, but every subject upon which the legislation has passed, continuing the same in its amendments in an unbroken succession of references from the earliest enactment, 1867, down to the close of the Session 1900.

BOOKBINDING.—In the following schedule we give our prices for the binding of miscellaneous books. The prices for binding Law Books, ordinary size, in the usual style, half-calf, is $1.25, and full calf $1.85, but if a better class of binding is required, prices will be given upon application. For price list see next page.

BOURINOT (J. G.), (Chairman's Handbook) Canadian Manual of Procedure. At meetings of Municipal Councils, shareholders and directors of companies, synods, conventions, societies and public bodies generally, with an introductory review of the rules and usages of Parliament that govern public assemblies in Canada. By J. G. Bourinot, C.M.G., LL.D., D.C.L., D.L., Clerk of the House of Commons. 1894. Price cloth, $3, hf-cl., $2.75.

BOURINOT (J. G.), Manual of Procedure. The Citizens' edition omits from above described work only portions relating to Municipal Councils and Church Synods. Boards 50c. Clo. $1.

Dr. Bourinot's capacity for work is simply enormous. Parliamentarians all over the world recognize the value of his great volume on Parliamentary Practice. This week the doctor has placed all classes of the community who have anything to do with public meetings, whether they relate to proceedings of religious bodies, banks, companies, municipal, commercial or general public gatherings, under obligations by the publication of a Manual of Procedure at Public Meetings. Any person who desires to know the rules governing the conduct of any class of gatherings will study Dr. Bourinot's latest work with pleasure and profit.—The Empire, Toronto, April 16, 1894.

This book is noteworthy for its clearness of style and logical arrangement, and meets the wants of that large body of persons who, in this country of popular institutions, are immediately interested in the methodical progress of business and naturally wish to make themselves conversant, as easily as possible, with the principles, rules and usages that should guide the proceedings of public bodies of all kinds.—The Week, April 1894.

This work of Dr. Bourinot is so comprehensive and carefully adapted to Canada that it must become the standard authority for rules of order in all public assemblies in this country.—The Christian Guardian, Toronto, April 18, 1894.

Large space is given to synods and conferences. The rules and modes of procedure in the synods of the Church of England, the conferences of the Methodist Church, the different courts of the Presbyterian Church, with conventions of the Baptist and other religious bodies, will prove of the highest interest to clergymen. By this exhibition of the guiding principles of various church courts, ample aid is furnished for the solution of difficult questions that are likely to arise at unexpected junctures. Special attention is given to the procedure of cities, towns and other municipalities of Ontario; a general code of rules for all is proposed, and valuable notes added on the municipal systems of the other provinces of Canada. Any person occupying a public position should have an intelligent understanding of the management of public meetings, and nowhere is there to be found such a unique manual for guidance as this one. It has special value from the fact that on all questions here considered, and the range is very large, it will be regarded as a final authority for Canadians. There is an extensive analytical index, which makes reference very easy.—King's College Monthly, January, 1896.

The above is only a small fraction of the excellent notices given of Dr. (now Sir) Bourinot's Procedure at Public Meetings.

BOYS (Jud.) on Coroners. A practical Treatise on the Office and Duties of Coroners in Ontario and the other Provinces, and the Territories of Canada, and in the Colony of Newfoundland. 4th ed. 1905. This edition contains, with notice of other poisons, a full account of the deadly Wourall poison, used by the natives of South America and of Borneo, and an important statement regarding the use and abuse of chloroform as an anaesthetic. Also a programme of proceedings at Inquests, in proper order, and Schedules of Fees and Precedents of a large number of Forms useful to Coroners. 600 pp. Hf.-cl. $5.

100 Coroners Forms, assorted, sufficient for two inquests, carriage paid on receipt of $1. Or a list of Selected Forms at 15 cents a dozen quarter sheets, and 30 cents a dozen half sheets (foolscap page).

To coroners in Canada the work, known popularly as "Boys on Coroners" must almost of necessity form their vade mecum. It is a work which is eminently useful in every respect, giving fullest particulars as to the various laws existing not only in Ontario but the other provinces. The former editions were intended for use in the Province of Ontario; this edition is, however, adapted to all the provinces and territories of the Dominion, and the colony of Newfoundland—Can. Journal of Medicine, etc., January, 1898.

This work is one without which no coroner can expect to properly fulfil his duties. It is a standard and sine qua non to every medico-legal practitioner.—Dominion Medical Monthly, October, 1895.

This is the third edition of Judge Boys' work, and in it are noted all the changes in the law which bring it up to date. The work has also been amplified so as to cover the whole Dominion and the colony of Newfoundland. A new chapter has also been added, containing a programme of the ordinary proceedings at an inquest, in consecutive order, with many of the forms required as the inquest proceeds, printed in their proper places, the others referred to by their numbers in the appendix. There is no doubt the work will be of great value to coroners throughout the country. The principal cases are also referred to. The work is divided into two parts, the first dealing with the office and duties of coroners generally and referring to the appointment, authority, jurisdiction, rights and liabilities of coroners, while the second deals with their office and duties in particular, treating of the offenders, parties and accessories, crimes, poisons, antidotes, wounds and bruises. There are also chapters dealing with various tests, evidence, the coroner's court and its organization and proceedings. There is also a schedule of fees — Montreal Gazette, December 22, 1892.

CANADA--Continued

The annotations apply to all such provisions as have passed under judicial review, and are in the form of an Appendix to each chapter.

The system of annotations proceeds upon the principle of citing Ruling Cases only where these are to be found. A "ruling case" for this purpose is an authoritative decision of some federal or provincial Court which discusses or reviews previous decisions on the point, or else is a decision upon a hitherto moot point of law or practice. Brevity cannot be justified on any stronger ground, for the multiplication of authority under such circumstances is a waste of time to all concerned. On the other hand, where there are no ruling cases to be found illustrative of certain points of construction, as many cases are cited as in the judgment of the Editors are necessary to render the construction free from doubt.

L. R. 1, 2, 4, 5; Western L. Reporter, 1-2.

This Digest therefore gives access to all the cases decided in the Dominion during the last five years, and as many of the cases in the Provinces are decided under the same Dominion Statutes, such as of Crimes, Insurance, Railways, etc., etc., it will be valuable in all Canada.

It is the first attempt (beyond an Annual) of an all Canadian Law Reports Digest. About 1,000 double column pages uniform with the Digest Ontario Case Law. Hf.-cf., $10.

CANADIAN Law Times and Review. Being an amalgamation of the Canadian Law Times, founded in 1881, and the Canadian Law Review, founded in 1881, under the editorial management of Mr. Charles Elliott, B.A., LL.B., Barrister-at-Law, Toronto. Subscription, including the Annual Digest of all Canadian Cases, $5. (Vol. 28 begins with January, 1908.)

The prominent features of the former magazines will be maintained; the proceedings of various Bar and Law Associations or Societies throughout Canada and Newfoundland will be published, and as the official organ of the Ontario Bar Association fifteen pages will be devoted monthly to Law Reform and the interests of the latter Association.

The Canadian Law Times and Review will be found practical, instructive, interesting, thoroughly readable and equally valuable to every lawyer in Canada and Newfoundland. For combination, see Lawyers' Annuals.

C. L. T. INDEX DIGEST to volumes 1 to 19, 1881-1899 - 1900
One volume. Hf.-cf. $6

This is a Digest of nearly Ten thousand Cases decided in all parts of Canada during the years 1881 to 1899, both inclusive, and also an Index to the articles in the first nineteen volumes of the C. L. Times.

Many of those who are using this Digest tell us they want to quickly trace Canadian Decisions on any point of law they can do so more readily through this Digest than any other in Canada.

This Digest used in connection with the C. L. Times makes the only ready access to all the Reports published in Canada, citing the volumes where the cases are to be found in the Provincial Reports for the period 1887 to 1899 both inclusive; the earlier years, 1881 to 1886, are only cited as found in the C. L. Times.

The publishers believe that if this volume were better known it would be lacking in very few law offices.

Review of second edition, 1895. This is really a second edition of a pocket book on the Assignment Acts, published some time ago, with notes, by Mr. Cassels. We sincerely think that Mr. Cassels is too modest in confining himself to a mere annotation of the Act. His previous book was constantly referred to, and we can predict the same of this edition. The notes are also too concise, though they consist with the evident purpose of the author to limit the size of his work. We would strongly recommend Mr. Cassels, in publishing a new edition, to depart from the system of annotation, and extend the work into a treatise on a subject which he is well capable of dealing with. In the meantime we shall have to be satisfied with the fare provided for us.—Can. Law Times, p. 314, 1895.

of Canada, in those cases. The drainage legislation and the decisions thereon have grown into a distinct branch of the law. In these reports will be found the rules and regulations for the adjustment of the cost of construing and maintaining large municipal drains in that part of the province where drainage is so necessary. Also the principles upon which compensation is to be allowed to those whose property may be injured by a drain. The other important features of the Municipal Drainage Act are discussed and commented upon. The statute is now very complete and comprehensive. The directions relating to the procedure are minute, and those intended for the guidance of the referee and engineer have attained, by a series of amendments, to the exactness of a code.—Mail and Empire.

CLARKE (S. R.), The Law of Landlord and Tenant. 1855. $5.

The most exhaustive work yet published on this most important branch of our jurisprudence. It cites not only all the cases decided in Great Britain and Ireland, but all those of the Provinces of Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland, Manitoba, British Columbia, the North-West Territories and the Australian Colonies of Victoria and New South Wales. It is the only work containing all the American Cases during the past ten years, besides a judicious selection from the earliest times on all points not covered by our own. The author's researches through the American Reports alone have extended over 500 volumes. Special attention has, however, been given to our authorities, and they are abstracted with great fulness not only because of their relation to the subject but because they have not been embodied in any previous work. The author also claims that every English case decided during the last 30 years has been referred to, whether in the Law Reports, Law Times, Law Journal or the Times Law Reports, though prior to 1865 a few cases have been omitted because they are so special in their facts as to be of little or no value. Frequent references have been made to the statute law of each Province in addition to that of Ontario. The book ought to be indispensable to the Canadian practitioner not only because it embraces as nearly as possible the whole law on the subject of Landlord and Tenant, but also because the elaborate English and American works are largely inapplicable.

This work is divided into: Part I., Introductory; Part II., The Results of our Colonial Status; Part III., The Original Group; Part IV., Subsequent Growth.

The end aimed at is the same expressed in the first edition, "to exhibit, in as compact a form as the wide scope of the subject permits, the law of the Canadian constitution in reference as well to our position as a colony of the Empire as to our self-government under the federal scheme of the B. N. A. Act."—Globe, March, 1904.

The writer takes up the B. N. A. Act of 1867, clause by clause, and gives his comments and explanatory notes, and cites the cases applicable to each. Thus the notes and cases are collected under each section of the Act. This method of dealing with the subject is of much greater value to the legal profession, to the student, and to the public, than a dissertation or treatise on the principles involved in the various clauses. Many parts of the machinery of government, which existed in the Provinces prior to 1867, were retained under the Federating Act. The author finds it necessary, therefore, to examine the earlier Provincial Constitutions, and gives a short historical retrospect of each of the older provinces.—Mail-Empire, February 27th, 1904.

This work is the first comprehensive and scientific one on the law of our constitution, and will be found valuable throughout the Dominion, both as a text book for students and a book of reference."—Can. Law Journal, November 16, 1892.

The practising lawyer has long felt the need of a convenient work on that very wide group of subjects embraced in the word "Torts." It is not that there is a scarcity of case law on these subjects. Quite the contrary. On such a subject as "Negligence," the decisions are as innumerable as the leaves of the forest, and the principles almost as elusive. The difficulty is to find a work that preserves a happy medium between the primary text books which are all general statements with no case law, and such bulky volumes of unanalysed and ill-digested decisions as make, for instance, the subject of "Employers Liability" a despair to the practitioner.

The busy man, having extracted the salient facts from his client, wants a work which will tell him in the time he takes to walk from one room of his office into another, whether his client has a case or will be knocked out on his own evidence.

The excellent treatise of Clerk and Lindsell has been selected as a book that has in the last few years approved itself to the English Bar as the best practical work on Torts.

INTRODUCTION TO CANADIAN NOTES.

Messrs. Clerk and Lindsell's Treatise is both a scientific analysis of the general principles of the Law of Torts and also a practical book for the lawyer. The general principles of the law are, as might be expected, the same in the English-speaking provinces of Canada as in England. Torts, however, is not a subject, but an extensive group of subjects; and it is therefore not easy for the Canadian lawyer to be sure that the same general principle has been applied in any particular instance on this side as on the other side of the Atlantic. It will not require much research to discover that there are considerable variations between the law as laid down by English and by Canadian judges in such complex subjects as Trespass, Distress, Negligence, and the other branches of Torts, and that the decisions of both are much affected by differing statutory conditions.

The system of adding notes to the end of each chapter has, of course, its disadvantages, but is the system that best avoids the confusion of the English notes with the Canadian. The statutes and decisions have as far as possible been kept separate as to the provinces where they were enacted and decided. In some instances the volume of decisions would be much too bulky to insert, and in these instances the editor has contented himself with indicating where the law will be found collected.

In this book the author has adopted an excellent way of impressing the rules on the mind—the leading case method—the method of teaching by example. Mapping out his subject on logical lines, "The Functions of Judge and Jury,"

Matters of which Proof is not required." "Burden of Proof," "Mode of Proof," "Witnesses," and so on, he gives a short preliminary note, and then takes a leading case to illustrate each principle, citing briefly from the judgments and emphasizing the pregnant sentences in heavy type. Classification, matter, and method are all excellent, and the student who could qualify for the forensic arena cannot do better than "read, mark, and inwardly digest" the contents of this useful volume. Legal Literature, January, 1908.

This work is founded on the Canadian Criminal Code of Canada, as amended to date, and on the laws of the different Provinces in Canada relating to Constables. It also cites cases which have come under the review of the Courts, and will be useful not only to Constables, but also to Lawyers and Magistrates, and to all who have to do with the administration of Criminal Law in Canada.

COUTLEE (L. W.), Digest of the Supreme Court Reports. A complete digest of these Reports from organization of the Court, covering vols. 1 to 33. 1901. Hf.-cf. $12.50

This digest has been compiled with a view to supplying a more comprehensive and classified index to the jurisprudence of the Supreme Court of Canada, in concise form, than has hitherto been within reach of the profession, and other persons interested in following the decisions of the highest appellate tribunal in Canada. The decisions digested in Mr. Cassels' work have been incorporated as found in the head-notes of the official reports, and the cases that were specially reported by Mr. Cassels have been digested in more convenient shape. The remainder of the officially reported cases, with numerous unreported decisions, have been brought down to the opening of the Autumn Sessions of 1903. Many useful additions have been made to the official head-notes based upon careful reconsideration of the reasons for judgments, and in some instances, new syllabi have been constructed, corrections have been made where necessary, and it is hoped that the present work as revised, condensed and re-framed, will shew more clearly the principles involved in the decisions of the court than any work of the kind heretofore published. References to the decisions of the courts appealed from and of decisions of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in cases reviewed on appeal have been inserted wherever it was possible to do so. In order to bring the work within convenient size without limiting its usefulness, copious cross-references have been added in the nature of an analytical index of subjects which ought to meet all ordinary needs of the profession in having ready reference to the jurisprudence established since the organization of the Court.

Book I. is a treatise on Employers' Liability at Common Law.

Book II. deals with their Liability under the Act of 1880.

Book III. deals with the new Act. The Author deals with this as one would when advising on evidence, taking and discussing seriatim every point necessary to be proved by the applicant to establish a right under the Act, followed by those points also open to the respondents to be taken by way of answer. At the same time, he gives in the Act in extenso references to the pages where any particular words or clauses are dealt with. By this means readers secure the double advantage of a text book methodically arranged and an Act fully annotated clause by clause.

Probably the most valuable feature of the book for Solicitors are the additional forms based on those of an actual case fought right through to the House of Lords, and the taxed Bills of Costs in connection with it. The Bills of Costs are invaluable not merely as examples of what may be charged, but as a reminder of what steps should be taken.

A form of policy of insurance which is fair to both parties is printed in an Appendix.

THE CANADIAN NOTES

These are primarily intended for Canadian lawyers, but an English barrister writes: "Your Canadian Notes should prove a success. I would have given five pounds some years ago for the case at end of page 90, as to young employees. It would have meant winning instead of a very bad compromise."

DENTON (J. H.), Municipal Negligence, Respecting Highways, 1906, Hf.-cf., $5.00.

This is a book that will be found valuable in every Province of the Dominion. The Canadian Cases are brought down to date, and our law compared with the law found in the United States. The American Law is given upon all points which have not been dealt with in our own or the English Courts. Contents:—The Nature and Extent of Common Law; Misfeasance and Nonfeasance; Statutory Liability; Indictment and Mandamus; Liability Respecting Streets; Liability Respecting Township Roads and Highways; Sidewalks and Crossings; Bridges; Bicycles and Automobiles; Respondent Superior; Municipal Knowledge of the Defect; Notice of the Accident; Proximate Cause; Contributory Negligence; Remedy Over; Evidence and Damages. In the Case "Campbell v. Townships of Brooke and Metcalfe," 8 O. W. R. 292, Falconbridge, C.J., is reported as saying: "The subject is discussed and the authorities are collected in Mr. Denton's valuable work on this branch of Municipal Negligence, p. 113 et seq."

The following letter, addressed to Mr. Denton is from Mr. Matthew Wilson, K.C., of the firm of Wilson, Pike & Co, Chatham, Ont., dated 9th October, 1907:

DEAR SIR.—Please allow me to congratulate you upon your success as an author. I do so now after a year's use of your book on "Municipal Negligence Respecting Highways." I find it most helpful, not only for its editorial comments and opinions, but also for its many references to Statutes and decisions of other provinces in Canada and other parts of the British Empire. In no other book can I find such a useful collection of home and foreign authorities. Every solicitor engaged either for or against a Municipality should have it. It is in daily use with me.

HASSARD (A. R.), Canadian Constitutional History and Law being a concise exposition and digest of Authorities on the B. N. A. Act to 1900. Clo. $2

This volume is really two books in one, and it covers completely, although briefly, the whole of the two subjects of Canadian constitutional history, showing the reasons for the great constitutional changes to be found in the history of Canada. This part carries the reader down to 1867, after which time the constitutional history of Canada practically ceases, except in so far as it affects the admission of new territory into Confederation. Part 2 treats of Canadian constitutional law. A brief definition and statement of the functions of constitutional law in Canada and in England. An elaborate comparison of the Canadian constitution with that of England and the United States is also contained in this part. The twenty-one points in which the Canadian constitution differs from and resembles the constitutions of England and the United States of America are enumerated.—Mail and Empire, Mar. 10th, 1906.

A very useful "Handy Book on the Dominion and Ontario Franchises." It contains the text of the Dominion Franchise Act of 1887, the Amending Act of 1889, and the Ontario Manhood Suffrage Acts, with notes and references to the cases and annotations under the former Acts. It also contains a table of cases, several indexes, a table of references to the original sections of the Dominion Franchise Act and a convenient table of qualifications for the Dominion Electoral Franchise. It is unnecessary to say that the work of annotation is well done, and the work will prove a most useful one.—Mail, July 10, 1889.

Since the coming into force of the Ontario Judicature Act in 1881, there has not been published in Ontario any collection of Forms of Proceedings similar to Daniell's Chancery Forms, Chitty's Forms of Proceedings, Seton's Forms of Judgment, etc., Pemberton's Judgments and Orders, and there has never been any considerable collection of Precedents of Pleadings. On these subjects it has hitherto been necessary to consult English works, but these cannot be unhesitatingly followed by practitioners in Ontario. Leggo's Collection of Chancery Forms has been out of date for many years. It contains, however, many forms capable of being still adopted for use, and these have been redrawn for the present work.

HOWELL (A.), Admiralty Law, Canada. The Rules, 1893, annotated with Forms, Tables of Fees, and Statutes, and a Treatise on the matters subject to the Jurisdiction of Admiralty Courts in Canada. 1894. Hf.-cf. $5.

The passing of the Act establishing the Exchequer Court of Canada as a Court of Admiralty worked a change in the law which necessitated a review of the whole subject of Admiralty Jurisdiction and Practice. The Maritime Court of Ontario disappears and a new Court with more extensive jurisdiction and a somewhat new practice takes its place. This is the occasion of the present work. In addition to the Act we have here the rules of practice and forms and a collection of enactments on salvage, wrecking, navigation, registration, wages, etc., with treatises and notes thereon.—*Can. This subject is a comparatively new one in Canada, and is daily becoming one of more importance. Almost the whole of our unoccupied Territories must be peopled by emigrants, and we may assume that they will, like those already amongst us, come from all the nations on earth. These must all become naturalized if they desire to enjoy the full privileges of the country, and it therefore goes without saying that the Naturalization Acts must be deemed amongst the most important laws that affect the North-West Territories. In addition to his annotation of the Naturalization Acts, Mr.

A number of enactments have been made by the Legislature of Ontario, the most recent in April, 1895, directly or indirectly affecting the law or practice of the Surrogate Courts, which have been set forth or referred to in the present treatise, namely: The Devolution of Estates Act, and amendments thereto, and the Act of 1890—"An Act to amend the Surrogate Courts Act," striking out the word "goods," the words "personal estate," and words of like import, and substituting the word "property," and directing that the Surrogate Courts Act should be taken as amended so as to conform to the intent and meaning of the Devolution of Estates Act, and in effect, as has been held, abolishing the distinction between real and personal estate for the purposes of administration; also The Succession Duty Act; the Act respecting Ancillary Grants of Probate and Administration with recent Orders in Council giving effect to the same, with certain other statutes passed at the last session of the Legislature; all of which have made material changes in the law affecting Surrogate Courts. The Statutes of Distribution having been modified by the Devolution of Estates Act, and important judicial decisions thereon having been reported, such decisions have also been noted in this work as well as the statutes themselves.

A considerable part of the volume is occupied with Probate Law generally, as administered in England, and in Ontario and other Provinces which follow the English system, and with the Practice of Courts of Probate, using that expression with reference to the general significance attached to it by the interpretation clause of the Colonial Probates Act, 1892. The leading cases in England, as well as in Canada in which the validity of wills has been contested on the ground of the testator's incapacity have been introduced and cited, all phrases of such incapacity being dealt with; the auditing of accounts, guardianship of infants, are dealt with, and tables of costs and forms are added. It is a work that every practitioner should have.—Can. Law Times, p. 273, 1895.

This work is a welcome addition to the legal literature of this province. The want of a simple, practical treatise on the law of foreclosure has long been felt by the profession in Ontario. American text books on the subject of foreclosure relate almost exclusively to the sale proceedings taken in the various States for the extinction of the title of mortgagors.
English treatises bearing on the subject of foreclosure deal widely with the whole law relating to mortgages, hence the demand for this special work. With the steady increase in the values of real estate that is now manifest throughout the Dominion, we may find the enforcement of foreclosure becoming more and more a favorite method with the holders of overdue mortgages and their solicitors. The work has been revised, and completed since the publication of the new rules of practice, and the Revised Statutes for 1892; hence all the rules and statutes in force in Ontario relating to mortgages are collected and annotated.—Mail and Empire.

We are greatly indebted to Mr. Hunter for the very able and complete work which he has placed before us. The Statutes dealt with are the Act respecting the Law and Transfer of Property, the Mortgage Act, the Partition Act, the Short Forms Statutes, the Devolution of Estates Act, the Limitations Act, the Vendor and Purchaser Act, the Custody of Title Deeds Act and the Registry Act.

The precedents selected embrace all the standard forms in general use, and many cases are added adapted to special and unusual cases.

There are precedents for affidavits, agreements and appointments, for submissions to arbitration, for references and awards. There are assignments of leases, mortgages, bonds, articles of apprenticeship, and assignments for benefit of creditors. There are powers of attorney, bills of sale, bonds, chattel mortgages, conditions of sale, declarations of trust, debentures, and deeds, leases, and mortgages of all kinds. There are notarial forms and forms of bills, notes, drafts, and notices, partnership agreements, patents of invention, assignment of patents, pledges, releases, settlements, deed of separation, surrenders, transfers, wills and codicils, and many other forms. In short, everything which a conveyancer ordinarily requires as a reference or guide in daily practice is to be found in this useful book of forms. It is well printed and neatly bound.—Mail and Empire, Sept. 4, 1897.

The statement of the law with regard to Scotland has been revised by Mr. Robert Campbell, of Lincoln's Inn, and the information relating to Germany, Holland, Sweden, and Norway has been specially obtained from Jurists of eminence in those countries. A short appendix on the Mortmain and Charitable Uses Act, 1891, completes a work which has been treated with grasp and thoroughness, and which, in our opinion, is likely to prove not less indispensable, and even more practically efficient, than it has been in its previous editions—Law Journal, Feb. 18th, 1893.

KING (J.), The Law of Slander and Libel in Canada. By John King, M.A., K.C., of Osgoode Hall, Toronto, one of the Lecturers to the Law Society of Upper Canada. The work is a Commentary and Digest combined, embracing the rules and principles of the English common law, the decisions of the Courts regarding these, the statutory law of Canada, Dominion and Provincial, concerning libel as a criminal offence and libel and slander as civil wrongs, together with notes of the reported cases in the Courts of all the provinces, the Province of Quebec included. United States decisions are also referred to. Having regard to the development of the law of the press, careful attention has been given to the enactments respecting newspaper libel as well as those of general application affecting newspapers. These enactments, particularly the sections touching libel and slander as actionable wrongs, are freely annotated and commented upon, and the illustrative cases fully noted and discussed. KINGSFORD (R. E.) Continued

Briefly, the purpose of the work is to present, after Blackstone, the principles of the law as it is at this date without reference to cases where such reference can be avoided, but with the fullest reference to the statutes of Canada and Ontario. This, as may be guessed, has involved no inconsiderable labor, and judging from this first volume containing introductory chapters, and the first division of the work, "Rights of Persons," the labor has been well bestowed and a useful and valuable book has been produced, containing a synopsis of the local law which cannot be found in entirety anywhere else, and so composed as to be easily intelligible by general readers as well as trained lawyers. The sections dealing with extradition, Indians, the municipal system and joint stock companies are entirely original, as are many other portions of the book.—Globe, July 8, 1896.

KINGSFORD (R. E.). Commentaries.—Volume II. Volume II of Mr. Kingsford's Blackstone's Commentaries on the Law of England adapted to the Province of Ontario. This volume contains the law relating to Rights of Things, that is, the law of Real and Personal Property. In press.

KINGSFORD (R. E.). Trial Evidence in Civil Cases. Bringing cases and subject matter up to the end of 1907.

This work is a third edition of Kingsford's Manual of Evidence, which has been enlarged by the addition of an introduction dealing with the general law of evidence; the securing the attendance of witnesses; their examination; the summing of juries and the course of procedure at a trial. The second part of the work deals with defences which are generally applicable. The third part contains a full explanation of the various species of actions with the line of attack and defence in each. The law of the province of Ontario is the basis of the text, but cases are cited and in Part I. full references given to the statutory law of all the provinces of the Dominion (except Quebec). The book is intended for use by counsel throughout the Dominion.

KINGSFORD (R. E.). Executors and Administrators—in the Province of Ontario. 2nd ed. 1902. Hf.-cf. $5.

The book deals with the management of an estate by an executor or administrator. The important questions raised by the Devolution of Estates Act and by the Succession Duties Act, and the changes effected by the organization of Trust Companies, will be all found referred to and discussed.

There is no other Canadian text book on the subject of Executors and Administrators, and it is hoped that Mr. Kingsford's work will supply a needed want.

The revised reprint of "Kingsford's Executors and Administrators" has been carefully perused by me. It gives evidence of much labor and great care and will be of great value to the Legal Profession in this Province. Complete and reliable up-to-date information is furnished for the guidance of Executors and Administrators, and in connection with the business of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation I find that the book is of great assistance.—E. KINGSFORD (R. E.), Law of Landlord and Tenant. A Handbook on the Law of Landlord and Tenant. 2nd ed. 1903. $2.

"The first edition, published in 1896, purported to give a synopsis of the most important points of this branch of the law, with notes of the leading cases from our own Ontario reports. Holdsworth's "Law of Landlord and Tenant" was adopted as an excellent model. The present edition includes the statutory amendments to the law since 1896, and the cases decided up to and including volume 5 of the Ontario Law Reports. Care has been taken by the very careful and conscientious writer to make this manual as complete as possible, with regard to the questions considered. The work is divided into seventeen chapters, each dealing with a separate branch of this very extensive department of law. There are also extracts from the statutes relating to public health, ditches and water courses, line fences, snow fences, and chapters 342 and 330 vol. III. of the Revised Statutes of 1897, are published in full. These contain all of the Imperial enactments relating to the landlord and tenant, in force in Canada. There are about forty useful forms of leases, renewals, covenants, easements, notices, and distress proceedings. The cases cited are numerous and well selected. This volume will be found to be a most useful handbook of the Canadian law relating to landlord and tenant. With the index it contains about 200 pages, and is well printed and bound.—Mail and Empire. May, 1903.

LEGAL Diary (Carswell Co.'s) for 1908 and each year

Size $5\frac{1}{2} \times 10\frac{1}{2}$ inches, two days to a page, followed by a memorandum, bills payable and receivable and cash account.

It will contain a Calendar for the year, Postal Information, Table of Limitations * Actions, Interest Tables, Bank Holidays, Sittings of the Courts of the various Provinces and Territories, Registration Divisions and Registrars of all the Provinces, and other useful information.

The Legal Diary has been published for five years, and has met with a more favourable reception each succeeding year. We desire to make it a handy book for the profession throughout the Dominion. One of our Librarians suggests to us that we give more attention to Western Lawyers, and that we place the names of two or more leading members in each of the Western Cities or Towns, arranged in order in each Province, similar to the style adopted in our CANADIAN LAW TIMES Legal Directory, in order that those in Eastern Canada may know with whom to correspond.

We have decided to accept this suggestion to this extent: That to every one who sends us his order for the Diary, 1908 we will insert his name in such Legal Directory. The Diary is expected to be ready in July of each year, and if $1.00 is remitted with the order before the end of May the Diary will be sent postage prepaid as soon as published.

If you have been using the Diary and can make any suggestions for its improvement, the publishers will be happy to consider the same.

The Diary will be sent to all regular subscribers without further order. Price $1.

The Bank Act, Canada, with Notes, Authorities and Decisions, and the Law relating to Cheques, Warehouse Receipts, Bills of Lading, etc., also the Savings Bank Act, the Winding Up Act, and Extracts from the Criminal Code, 1906. By Hon. Mr. Justice J. J. MacLaren, Q.C., D.C.L., LL.D., of the Court of Appeal Member of the Bar of Ontario and Quebec; Solicitor to the Molsons Bank at Toronto; Author of "Bills, Notes and Cheques," etc., etc. With an Introduction on Banking in Canada. By B. E. Walker, Esq., General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. 3rd ed. 1908. Hf-cf. $150

The Acts are fully treated of in notes following the sections or groups of sections, and at the end of a subject matter or division thereof, wherever it permits, are placed illustrations in the way of notes of cases decided upon the subject matter.—Can. Law Times, p. 173, 1896.

The author points out that it is more than seventy years since charters were granted to banks in each of the old provinces that are now known as Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick, and which comprised the whole Dominion as it was formed in 1867, and with a single exception these are all in successful operation to-day. The organization of other banks and the periodical renewal of all bank-charters, as well as the discussions incident to the frequent amendment and revision of the Canadian general banking laws have in the course of time evolved a system that appears to be admirably adapted to the circumstances of a young and growing country like Canada, and on this account, Dr. Maclaren points out, many of the rules and principles laid down in the general works on banking by writers in Great Britain and the United States do not apply to Canada, and are apt to prove misleading. In the selection of cases as authorities and illustrations, Dr. Maclaren has included those in the Canadian Reports which appear to embody or settle a principle, and which have not been overruled by subsequent legislation or overruled by later decisions. He has also embodied the leading cases in the higher courts of England and the United States which appear to be in harmony with Canadian law. In such a comprehensive work, it is difficult very often to make a selection, but when it is stated that of the cases cited three hundred and fifty are Canadian, and the references to Canadian statutes number nearly three hundred, it will readily be seen how valuable and exhaustive the work is.—Journal Royal Colonial Institute.

MACLAREN (J. J., Q.C.), Bills, Notes and Cheques. The Bills of Exchange Act, 1890, Canada, and the Amending Act of 1891, with Notes and Illustrations from Canadian, English and American decisions, and references to ancient and modern French Law. Maclaren, Q.C., D.C.L., LL.D., of the Court of Appeal, Member of the Bar of Ontario and Quebec; Law Examiner of Victoria University and Honorary Lecturer on Comparative Jurisprudence in the University of Toronto. 4th ed. 1908. MACLAREN (J.J.)—Continued.

Mr. Maclaren's success with the first edition of the Bills of Exchange Act ensures the hearty reception of his present work. The fact that the first edition of the Bills of Exchange Act was sold out within a year was a sufficient indication of its usefulness.—Can. Law Times, p. 173, 1896.

This is a useful addition to an office library, to the extent to which it goes, and the work seems to be carefully done, and the printing and paper are of the best description.
Can. Law Journal, Vol. 33, p. 631.

This is a most creditable work of its kind. While its scope is narrow, as its title indicates, it is orderly and logical in its arrangement, comprehensive in its treatment of the subject, and compact, concise and complete in its material.
Can. Law Times, Aug. 1897.

He deals in order with the subject matter, the Application, the Premium and Premium Note, the Contract, the Conditions of the Contract, Changes Material to the Risk, Insurance in Other Companies, the Duties and Powers of an Agent Loss, Proof and Payment, and Subrogation and the Rights of Mortgagees, devoting a chapter to each. The book also contains a short chapter dealing with legal proceedings in connection with a contract of fire insurance and the investigation of fires. There are also copious references to the new Act, as well as to many legal decisions. An appendix gives so much of the Ontario Insurance Act, 1897, as affects the fire insurance business.—The Economist, July, 1897.

A deal of practical and serviceable matter to not alone the merchant and manufacturer, but the insurance agent and even the lawyer, is brought together in the 160 pages of this distinctly printed and convenient-sized book. Its aim has been "to cover the laws affecting business between the fire insurance company and the insuring public." The short summary of the growth of fire underwriting in Ontario and the reference to fire investigations are succinctly done. The list of insurance law cases, and the Appendix containing the Ontario Act, render the work still more valuable.—Mon. Times, July 16, 1897.

MARSH (A. H., Q.C.), History of the Court of Chancery and of the Rise and Development of the Doctrines of Equity. 1890. Clo. $1.50; hf.-cf. $2.

In this small volume of one hundred and forty pages, the author has given a very complete and interesting history of the Court of Chancery.

He starts out with the earliest times when the King administered justice in person. There he describes the creation of the office of Chancellor; the origin of the common law courts; Chancery as a common law court. He gives the history of original writs; the Statute of Westminster second; failure of this statute; the Chancellor's extraordinary jurisdiction; the form of pleading; writs of subpoena; preventing jurisdiction. Tracing its history on down he shows how it afforded protection to the poor and weak; how Chancery procedure was abused by vexatious suits; the recognition of the Court by Parliament; the influence of the Roman law upon it; the conflict between Chancery and common law judges.

He treats of the limits of jurisdiction; instances of equitable interference; undue interference of equity; how Courts of chancery were rendered necessary by the conservatism of the common law judges, and how legal doctrines are modified by equity doctrines.

To the student and the lawyer who is fond of research, and the early literature of the law, this work will be found both entertaining and instructive.—Balt. Record, August 30, 1890.

Under the title "History of the Court of Chancery and of the Rise and Development of the Doctrines of Equity," Mr. A. H. Marsh, Q.C., Equity Lecturer to the Law School of the Law Society of Upper Canada, has published the historical and introductory lectures of the series delivered by him after the reorganization of the school. In order to explain to his class the origin and development of the equitable jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery, Mr. Marsh found it necessary to sketch the early history of that Court, and the interesting and valuable information which he collected for this purpose is now preserved in concise form in this volume. In it the reader is given an account of "the circumstances which gave rise to the organization of that Court; the evils which were intended to be remedied thereby; the methods adopted to afford those remedies; the jealous opposition to the common law lawyers; the struggle for jurisdiction which took place between the Courts of Equity and the Courts of Common Law, and the triumph of the Court of Chancery followed by the ultimate prevalence of equity." This brief outline gives but an imperfect idea of the contents of the work, in the preparation of which in the original form of lectures Mr. Marsh must have spent much time and labour. To law students and members of the legal profession the book will prove instructive and useful.—Mail, August 12, 1890.

MASTERS (C. H.), Practice of the Supreme Court of Canada
3rd ed. 1907. 18*ft.-ed.* $6

Since the second edition of this work was published (1898), the Court has given numerous decisions on questions of jurisdiction and practice, the jurisdiction of the Court has been enlarged by provision being made for appeals from the Yukon Territorial Court, and from the Board of Railway Commissioners, and the Supreme Court Act and other Acts affecting the Court have been revised, the form being materially altered and a few changes made in the substance of these Acts. Moreover, the Rules of Court in use since its organization have been abolished and an entire new set of Rules have come into force (September 1st, 1907). For all these reasons a new edition of the work is desirable, and even necessary, and the author of the second edition, which was very favourably received, from his long connection with the Court and the experience which he has had in consequence, is eminently qualified for the task of preparing it.
This edition has been under preparation for a long time the author finding it necessary to wait—first for the revision of the Statutes to be completed; secondly, for the issue of new Rules of Court. In consequence, the work has been prepared with the greatest care, and any errors and omission in the second edition have been rectified and supplied. Lawyers practising in the Supreme Court will find it of great value, as all the important decisions are noted and the profession advised on every point of practice and jurisprudence.

MASTEN (C. A.), Canadian Company Law. 2nd ed. In preparation for early publication, covering the organization, management and winding up of Joint Stock Companies and being an annotation of the following Acts: (1) The Dominion Companies Act, (2) The Dominion Winding-up Act, (3) The Provincial Act respecting Foreign Corporations, (4) Such of the Provincial Companies Acts as it appears advantageous to print. The annotations will embrace all the Canadian decisions and such of the English and American decisions as are of first importance.

It is expected that the work will be ready during the present year (1908), but we are not yet able to state the date of publication nor name a price.

- XI. Subordinate Principles
- XII. and XIII. Intentions attributed to the Legislature when it expresses none.

This is an admirable book, excellent in its method and arrangement, and clear and thorough in its treatment of the different questions involved. . . . The work will be found of great practical utility, as affording a key to the method adopted by our Courts in the construction of statutes, and it will be of much value as showing the uniformity which has

A most comprehensive work and covers every branch of the law in connection with mines.—Can. Law Times.

The learned authors (Messrs. W. D. McPherson and J. M. Clark) are eminently well qualified for their difficult task, and the work is an important contribution to comparative jurisprudence.—Globe.

The work is a monument of research, care and industry. The standing at the Bar of the authors, and their reputation for care and thoroughness, inspire confidence as to the accuracy and painstaking energy with which the work has been done.

The work will prove invaluable, both to writer, upon mining law and to mining lawyers and operators. Every American lawyer who has to deal with a mining question outside of the peculiar statute law of the United States will be grateful for this comprehensive view of general principles and English decisions. It may furnish him with decisive authority; it will certainly give him valuable suggestions.—Canadian Mining Review.

No English text book could give more care and attention than does that of the present authors to the right understanding of the judgments in every English case bearing upon the points discussed; and the decisions in well-known cases like Chasemore v. Richards, Harris v. De Penna, Halkier v. Porritt. The St. Helen's Smelting Co. v. Tipping, and Webb v. Bird have evidently been as anxiously scrutinized in Canada as they have been here.

This treatise appears to be admirably adapted for its purpose and the manner of indexing and the cross-references are likewise excellent.—Law Magazine and Review (London).

MORRISON (R. S.), Mining Reports and Leading Irrigation Cases. A collection of all the Cases involving the Law of Mines and the important Irrigation Cases to be found in the various State Federal Reports and in those of England. Arranged according to subjects, alphabetically. 1883-1905. Vol. 16, Annual Digest, 22 vols., including Index-Digest $110. (Duty Extra).

The utility of bringing together the entire body of the decided cases on this most important and growing branch of the law is clearly proven by the cordial reception accorded this popular series. The law scattered throughout the Reports of nearly every State in the Union and of England, was practically inaccessible except to the practitioners who had access to complete libraries. By bringing all these scattered decisions together, arranging them according to the subject-matter of the case and supplementing them with numerous and thoroughly written notes, the lawyer has at his command, not only all the case law, but the case is arranged so that he can get a complete knowledge of it in the shortest possible time and with a minimum of labour.

These Reports present not merely the leading cases, but the bulk or mass of the cases of importance. Also the leading irrigation cases.

The entire opinion is given in every instance with statement of facts as full as that contained in the original report. This, together with the annotations by Mr. Morrison makes these reports of inestimable value.

Extracted mainly from the reported decisions, and embracing many Epigrams and Quaint-sayings 1904. Art Cloth. $2.50.

This work is an effort on a large scale to collect and codify the authoritative sayings of the English Chancellors and Judges. The object of the author has been to digest this KIND of learning, and to exhibit in a comprehensive and accessible form those sayings of the judges which are to be found embodied in judicial decisions. This he has accomplished by patient and prolonged labor and research. The judges of England have long enjoyed a well-earned reputation for the terseness and aptitude of many of their dicta. Those who have looked through the pages of the old editions of the Law Reports, in search of a precedent to illustrate some obscure point of law, know how much of authentic English history lies buried in such books.

The luminous expressions here collected are the products of a laborious perusal of the cases from both ancient and modern reports down to the present time. Discrimination has been carefully studied, and though some of the quotations may not be in themselves of great practical value, yet the author has deemed it expedient to err rather on the side of fulness than to incur the censure of meagreness. The moral which many of these sayings teach, and their quaintness—in many instances suggestive of the age of their utterance—make them all the more worthy of preservation. The alphabetical method of classification, adopted throughout, has necessitated the intermingling of the upholders of modern judges with those of their early or remote predecessors. By means of references below each quotation, those which are of a similar nature in principle will all be found duly connected one with another, thus facilitating the work of reference. The quotations are strictly confined to those whose fame lies exclusively in the domain of jurisprudence, and the actual practice of the law. Each reference gives in addition to the quotation and the name of the judge, the name of the case, the page of the report and the year wherein the case was decided. Everyone who has attempted to write on legal subjects can readily understand the difficulty in framing a concise, and at the same time a comprehensive statement of a principle of law. These quotations are the refined metal produced from the crucible of the judicial mind.

The writer says "A Judge transacts all his business in public, and is constantly brought into direct, personal relations, not only with the members of a large and active profession, but with men in all ranks of life, and on every sort of subject. Therefore judges are probably the best known of all our public men. They are, moreover, totally independent of those with whom they have to deal. Hence no anxiety is felt in submitting to public examination, the collection of dicta contained in this work. But for this purpose it has been found necessary to sweep centuries backward through the English reports. With regard to Lord Mansfield, whose countenances and exalted talents conferred dignity upon the profession, whose enlightened and regular administration of justice, made its duties less difficult and laborious, and whose manners rendered them pleasant and respectable, numerous quotations have been selected from his judgments for the benefit of those in whom he took special interest, namely the students, for very great deference is due to whatever fell from so able a Judge." In concluding his introduction the writer further says, "whatever in this work may tend to communicate any useful precedents to the furtherance of justice, the discouragement of inquiry, the honor of the laws and consequently of the profession and the public at large the author shall be happy to have imparted."

The Hon. Charles Moss, Chief Justice of Ontario, writes: "I find the book most entertaining as well as instructive. It is a very good thing that a collection has been made of some of the incidents and stories connected with Osgoode Hall and the men who have frequented it, thereby preserving them for the benefit of the younger race whose experiences are of recent men, manners and things."

There is much humour and wit and a distinct literary flavour about Mr. Hamilton's reminiscences. The book will, we think, be a surprise as well as a delight to most readers. There is a great deal of information in it, and although Osgoode Hall as a theme may possibly suggest dry-as-dust topics to some minds, there is not a single dull paragraph. Nor is the matter of the kind which will be appreciated by lawyers only. We can heartily recommend the volume, which is well printed on excellent paper, as one full of interest to the reader.—Lan Times, July, 1904.

The texts of both are given in full in the appendices. Chapters have also been added on the People and their Rights and the Courts and their Procedure, in which much useful information is to be found. The chapter on Criminal Law has been greatly enlarged, the author acknowledging his indebtedness to Mr. Kintillus Irving, Q.C., for many valuable suggestions. In Part II. as complete a history of former Governments in Canada and in the provinces is given as the scope of the present work allows. Report of the Discussions in the London Conference: Various Drafts of the British North America Bill; the British North America Act; Appendices; Index; 1895. Price in clo $2.50.

In the capacity of Sir John Macdonald's biographer Mr Pope had access to a mass of documents relating to matters of vast interest affecting the history of the Dominion of Canada, but which for various reasons could not be included in a work such as that which he has written regarding the life of the deceased statesman. Among these documents was a large collection of papers relating to the confederation negotiations of 1864-1867, which gave promise of material from which could be prepared a history of confederation, and which consisted of drafts of the minutes of the Quebec Conference, as well as innumerable reports, motions, amendments, and drafts of the British North America Bill in various stages of evolution, none of which had ever been published. Mr. Pope, having reduced this mass of valuable material to the smallest possible compass, has issued what may be termed a most valuable appendix to the "Memoirs of Sir John Macdonald," which forms a not wholly unimportant contribution to the constitutional literature of Canada. Such a collection of previously unpublished documents cannot fail to prove of great value, more especially to the student of Canadian affairs. Mr. Pope has exercised great discretion as editor, and in an able preface explains the connection between the various items which constitute the work.—Jour. Roy. Col. Institute, Dec., 1895.

Extract from Preface:—"I have come across incidents in the lives of several of the judges which have given me a clearer insight into the early history of the Province and the War of 1812. The Battles of Lundy's Lane, Queenston Heights, Fort Erie, and Chrysler's Farm are memorable events in the history of the Province. They have not escaped my notice; nor has the capture of York by the Americans been forgotten."

The array of facts collected and arranged here relating to the early days of the Province, and to some of those most active in giving form to its institutions and guiding its course, is a valuable contribution to our historical knowledge. Few Canadians can read this book without making extensive additions to their knowledge of the history of the most important Province of their country. We venture the opinion, however, that many lay readers would willingly forego some few of the many accounts of important trials in which one and another of the Judges took part, either judicially or as counsel before their elevation to the bench, if their place had been supplied by characteristic anecdotes such as occasionally crop out. The book would not be complete without the chapter on "The Law Society and Osgoode Hall," a chapter which turns one's thoughts back to the older days when legal studies were in their infancy in Ontario. The concluding chapter gives some enjoyable reminiscences of incidents which go to show that the legal mind is not deficient in the keen perception of the ridiculous, nor slow in giving expression to the humorous.—The C. L. Journal.

Hitherto a great deal of the family and personal history of the earlier Judges of the Province has been matter of tradition. The generation which connected them with the present is passing away, and we are therefore grateful to Mr. Read for placing in our hands a history, for the truth of which we have a voucher in the person of one whom we all know, and who personally knew many of those of whom he writes. The facts which Mr. Read gives us are many of them already well known to us, but we must take occasion to remark the fluent and easy, and in many parts, graceful style with which they are related.—*C. REVISED REPORTS.—Complete Series of English Case Law. A republication of Reports of Cases in the English Courts of Common Law and Equity from the year 1785; omitting such cases and parts of cases as are considered to be no longer of practical value. Under the general editorship of Sir Frederick Pollock, Bart., assisted by R. Campbell and O. A. Saunders, Barristers-at-Law.

The excellence of this series of Reports over any other offered to the public is very apparent, the text of the Reports being really edited—not merely reprinted without examination. A large number of manifest errors in the Reports as originally published, of which not a few are material are corrected, with or without special remark. Nothing of this kind has been to our knowledge attempted in any other series. This particularly applies to quotations and references in matters of Roman, Foreign, and early British law, which are often found to have been very ill printed or taken from obsolete texts.

The feature of consolidating the report below and the report or reports on appeal (which before the commencement of the "Law Reports" are almost always in different series), to save having to refer to two or three volumes for the several stages of the case, is peculiar to the Revised Reports.

It takes into account all the judgments in the Law Journal Reports, the Jurist Reports, and will as soon as the period has been reached, those of the Law Times Reports and the Weekly Reporter. Many of the cases in these different series are not contained in the regular reporters' series, and the Law Journal Reports are almost as much used in England by members of the profession as the "authorized" Reports.

This complete Series of Reports, now 95 volumes, includes all cases of value reported in the following 595 volumes:

This volume of 130 pages will be found a useful, and, in so far as we have been able to verify the notes, we think, an accurate guide to the jurisdiction and practice in the Local Courts and County Courts of this Province, as altered and established by the Acts of the Provincial Legislature passed during and since the session of 1896. The jurisdiction and practice of the County Courts have been so changed by the recent legislation and rules that a collection of the cases applicable thereto will prove very useful to the profession. The book contains notes or references to over 400 cases. The rules and statutes having any bearing upon the sections are quoted or referred to. The notes and references come immediately after each section under consideration; and to the extent of their accuracy and appositeness they form a valuable commentary upon the provisions of the statutes. The comments and authorities on such subjects as "Jurisdiction," "Prohibition," "Mandamus," "Title to Land," "Replevin," "Interpleader," and "Equitable Relief," are especially full and exhaustive. An extension of the jurisdiction of the County Courts became necessary in the interest of the suitors and as a relief to the Superior Courts. —Mail and Empire, Aug. 6, 1898.

ROGERS (R. V.), Law of the Road, or the Wrongs and Rights of a Traveller by Rail, Stage and Boat. By R. Vashon Rogers Q.C. Clo. $1.

The Characters are graphically sketched, the plot is ingenious, the incidents are sensational, the style is humorous, the conversations are animated, and the interest is well sustained throughout the—not the latest novel—treatise on the Law of the Road, by Mr. R. Vashon Rogers. He is merry and wise, and even on such a subject as the legal wrongs and rights of travellers has succeeded in combining the utile dulci. Omne tulit punctum can hardly be added, however, as a necessary corollary (though Mr. Rogers may lay claim to that praise on other grounds), unless indeed law books are to be tested by the principle of Delille applied to lighter literature, dans l'art d'intéresser consiste l'art d'écrire. With unrelaxed interest, certainly, we have travelled through this book from cover to cover, and, entertained as well as instructed, page after page has found us still unwearied, still amused.

"A merry heart goes all the day,
Your sad tires in a mile-a."

Merrily indeed is law to be learned when Mr. Rogers writes, nor can text-writers complain, with Voltaire, that tout est pris, when by only adopting the unique method introduced by this little work the whole body of law can be made to supply scope for original treatment; but let others be warned that "the gift is good in those in whom it is acute" only, like that of master Holofernes, and attempt not to rival Mr. Rogers unless they possess the very rarest powers of writing on the principle that "Men must be taught as if you taught them not."

The above is a short extract only from the Irish Law Times, May 14, 1881.

ROGERS (R. V., Q.C.), Law and Medical Men.—A Concise Exposition of the Law relating to Medical Men. 1881. Clo. $1.50. Hf.-cf. #2.

. . . We need only say that the book is in Mr. Rogers' happiest vein, and should be on the shelves not only of the lawyer but of the medical man, as also of others who wish to gain much interesting information in a pleasant and easy way. . . . —Can. Law Journal.

"Who should pay the Doctor?" is a question that may perplex any person at some period or other of his or her life to answer. In the case of an accident on the street, a guest staying in your house, a message sent to the medical man by a friend, and dozens of other instances might arise in which it is rather puzzling to decide who is legally liable to pay the bill when it is presented. This question and many others are answered by a compact little handbook just issued by Mr. R. Vashon Rogers, Jr., (author of "The Law of the Road, or the Wrongs and Rights of Travellers"), entitled "Law of Medical Men." The book, though small, contains a great deal of information which will prove useful, not only to the legal profession, but to all classes. In his opening chapter he traces medical practitioners up from the ancient Druids, the doctors of the olden time, and gives other chapters on the following subjects: Fees, who should pay the doctor, who may practice, negligence and malpractice, criminal malpractice, professional evidence, medical experts, experts in insanity cases, defamation, relations with patients, dissection and resurrection, and dentists and druggists. The title to the chapter on resurrection might mislead some people; but a perusal of its pages will satisfy the reader that

It is intended for the use of those classes of readers who may be said to be on the fringe of the law; for instance, Law Students, actual and potential, Justices of the Peace, for those "general" readers who take an interest in our system of justice. Law Students especially, it is hoped, will find in it a very first law book, serving as a popular introduction to severer studies, and it is chiefly for their benefit that the References to Reported Cases have been added. Many elementary points, too, of principle and practice find a place, because the author remembered that in his student days such elementary matters were precisely the most difficult to find in books. The work is well indexed.

The whole forms a large volume of 940 pages, very clearly printed, and contains the decisions in about 3,500 reported cases, forming a body of law which every practitioner in the Courts of this Province is bound to study with care.

To those who are familiar with the two former editions of this Digest, and what legal man is not? it is superfluous to state that in this third edition Judge Stevens has done his work admirably. The arrangement is clear and judicious, a very essential feature in a Digest, and the cross references are numerous, so that there is no difficulty in finding any case bearing on any point of law or of practice. This work will be an imperishable monument to the learning and industry of Judge Stevens, and we hope that his labours may be better rewarded than have those of most New Brunswick lawyers who have published law books.—St. John Telegraph, Dec. 27, 1897.

English language (in its plenitude as well as in its widest sense) so far as that language has received interpretation by the Judges, to the end of the nineteenth century.

UNIQUE. Good or bad, it is believed that the work is unique. It had no predecessor and has no rival. Its merit is not only that it is liable of frequent practical utility to the English-speaking lawyer, but that it may become the authoritative interpreter of the business English for the British Empire, and incidentally forge a link in the golden chain of common interest and community of feeling which binds together its various peoples.

ENGLISH JUDGES. The decisions of the English Judges are and will remain the central source whence the authoritative exposition must come; through Irish, Scotch and Colonial decisions should harmonize and converge.

JUDICIAL INTERPRETATIONS. To furnish the English judicial interpretations from the earliest time down to the end of the nineteenth century, and thenceforth to blend or refer to the Statutory definitions of the High Court of Parliament, has been the endeavour of this edition; adding a not inconsiderable treatment of Irish decisions, and those from Scotland and the United States.

STATUTORY. Statutory definitions are now brought within the scope of the work. It is believed that approximately all of practical utility down to the end of the nineteenth century, are referred to, whilst many are omitted at length or blended with judicial interpretations.

DRAUGHTING. It will be an indispensable aid to draughting all kinds of documents and construing them accurately for the interpretation of Acts of Parliament. About 25,000 words and phrases are defined. Cases are cited in support of every definition. 20,000 cases are cited in addition to the countless cases utilized by many thousands of references to the best text books.

WILLSON (A.), Day Book, Cash Book and Ledger combined, for Municipal Councils and Schools

Lay Book, Cash Book and Ledger combined for Councils, $5.

Day Book, Cash Book and Ledger combined for Schools, $5.

After twelve years practical working of this system of bookkeeping, no other method has been introduced by means of which treasurers can so readily and correctly enter up their accounts. By using this system no special course of study or commercial training is required to enable an intelligent school boy to solve the mysteries of Municipal Book-keeping. The book contains from fifteen to twenty vertical dollars and cents columns, the first two being devoted to total receipts and disbursements, respectively, from which a cash balance may be had at any time; the other (ledger) columns have written or printed headings (as required) specifically grouping and classifying in the several vertical columns the amounts appearing in the first and second columns; the total of the first column must correspond with aggregate total of the several columns of receipts and the total of the second column must in like manner correspond with the aggregate total of the disbursement column—thus each page proves itself, as stated by Auditors of the Township of York: "A new book has been prepared—combining all the books heretofore used whereby the receipts, disbursements and balances can be seen at a glance at the end of each page." A. L. W.

WOODFALL (W.), The Law of Landlord and Tenant, 18th ed., 1908. Cloth, $10.; half cloth, $11.

In addition to a complete treatment of the law, such as is to be found in no other work on the subject, Woodfall contains a very full collection of Precedents of Leases and other Contracts of Tenancy, Forms of Notice, etc., Forms of Proceedings in Distress, and in Actions.

Sixth English Edition

BY

CLEMENT ELPHINSTONE LLOYD, B.A., Oxon.

Of the Inner Temple, Esquire, Barrister-at-Law.

WITH

Notes of

Canadian Statutes and Cases

BY

CHARLES MORSE, D.C.L..Sometime Law Examiner in Trinity University, Toronto; one of the Annotators of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906; and Editor of the Eastern Law Reporter.

This standard work is one of the most useful books for the general practitioner's library. Apropos of the subject we would recall Lord Westbury's famous order to the trembling coachman when his lordship's horses were running away: "Drive into something cheap!" One may not be permitted to remember his horse law in such perilous circumstances as Lord Westbury did; but the next best thing is to have an authority like OLIPHANT on the shelf.

Probable Price, $5.50.IN PRESS.

The Law of Betting and Gaming, by Clement Elphinstone Lloyd, B.A., Oxon., with Canadian Notes and Canadian Statutes by Charles Morse, D.C.L. Probable price, cloth, $2.
